

“Lives Worth Living” Film Documents Disabled Rights Movement

As part of Disability Awareness and Inclusion Month in October, All Access, Berkeley Lab’s Disability Inclusion Employee Resource Group, is sponsoring multiple showing of the documentary “Lives Worth Living.”

“Lives Worth Living” traces the development of consciousness of disabled rights pioneers who realized that in order to change the world they needed to work together. Through demonstrations and inside legislative battles, the disability rights community secured equal civil rights for all people with disabilities.

Members of All Access will attend the showings to answer questions about the group and how lab employees can help make our lab more accessible for all.

The film will be shown on:
